

University Research Symposium

— Spring 2022 —

The University Research Symposium was held on April 1, 2022. This annual university-wide showcase of student scholarship, research, and creative endeavors was held in the Brown Ballroom and Circus room at the Bone Student Center with Theatre oral presentations taking place in person and on Zoom on March 31st and Physics oral presentations on Zoom April 2nd. There were 206 posters and 360 in-person student presenters, including 82 E-Posters. The “E-Poster” option was new this year and allowed students to present a poster virtually.

The day brought many visitors to the symposium from faculty/staff, students, administration, and the general public. The Graduate School would like to thank all students and faculty mentors who were involved in the year’s symposium.

Photo above, an overhead view of the symposium with students presenting their posters on easels.

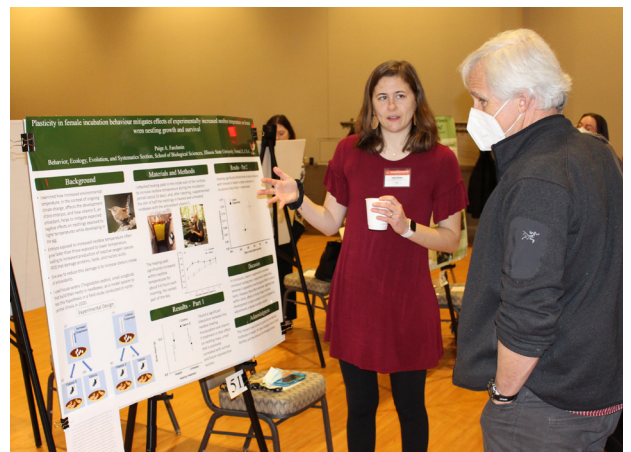

Above, a student explains their research to a group. Below, a student presenter answers questions.

Above, a presenter describing their research.

Above, a student explains their research to the Office of Student Research Director.

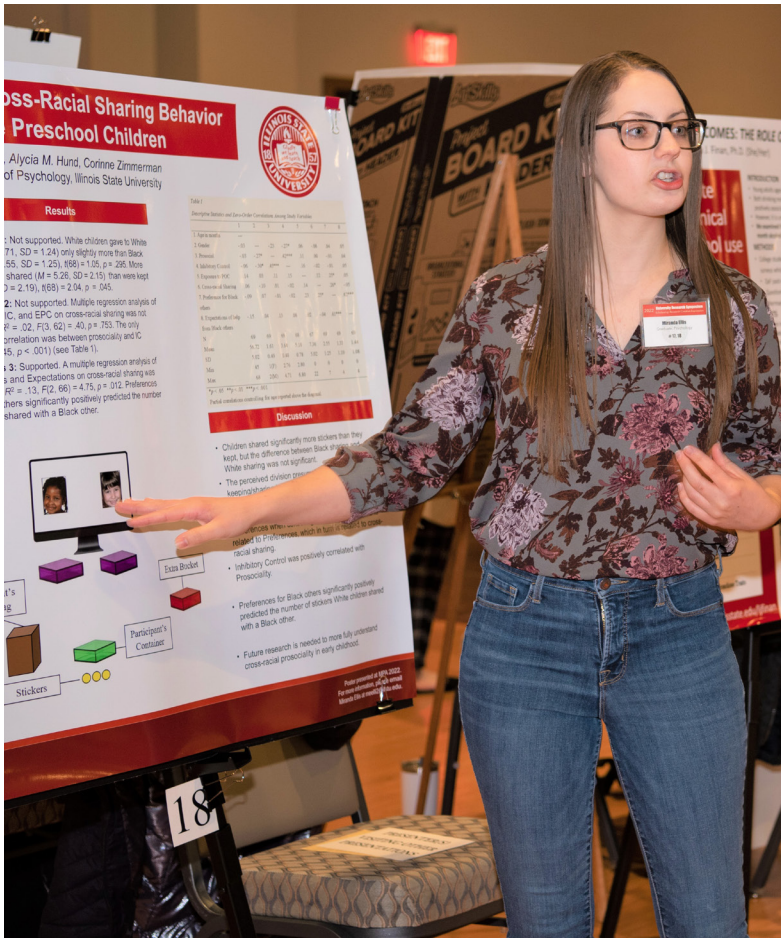

To the left, a group is reviewing an E-Poster on a monitor in the Circus room where the Image of Research Competition winners' work was also on display.

To the right, a student presenting their handmade poster.

To the left, a research group presents their poster to the Provost.

Above, three photos of students with their posters telling visitors about their research.

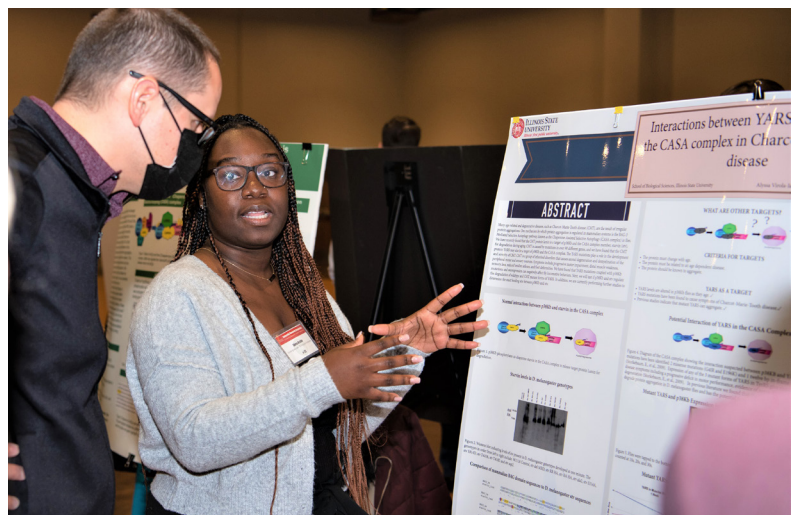

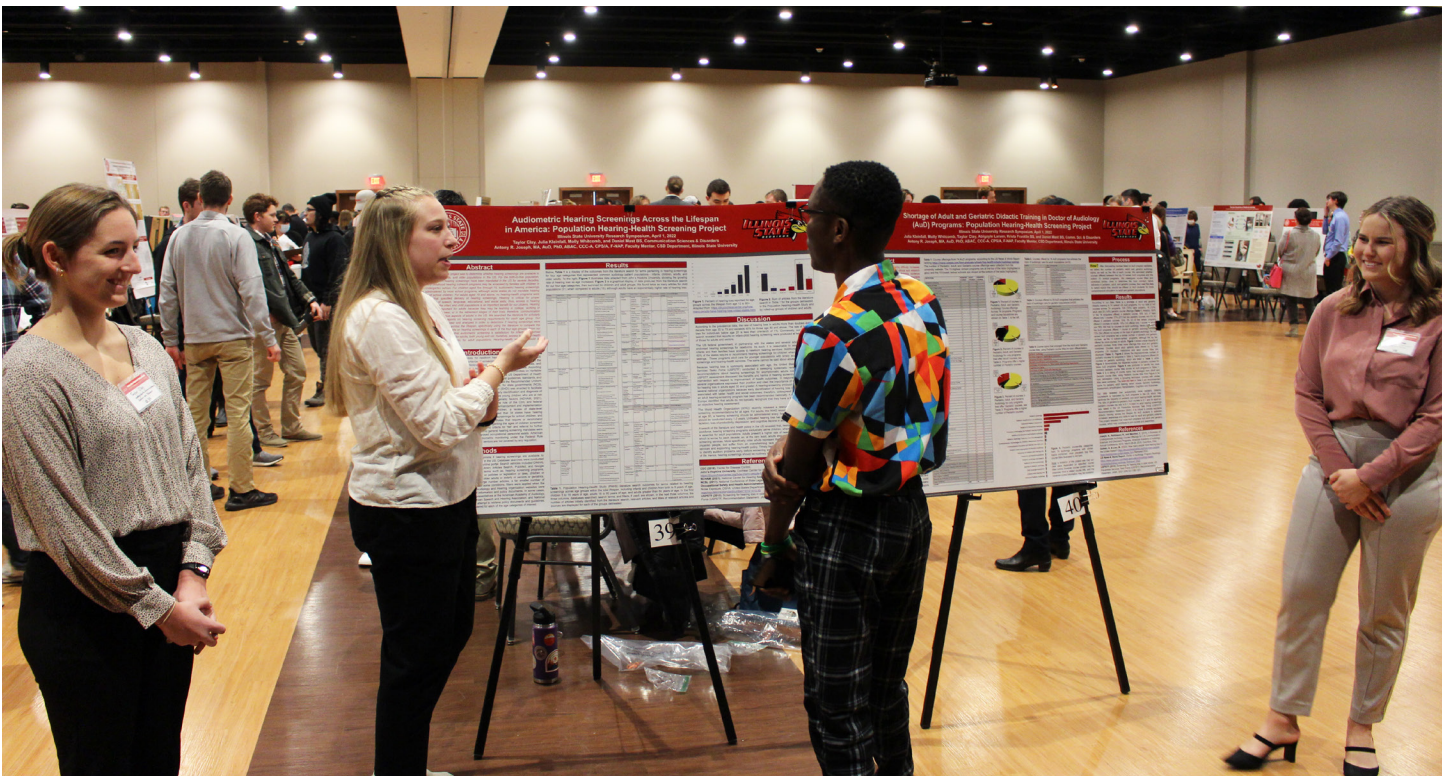

Above, a presenter explains their research while their service dog naps at their feet.

To the left, a student presents their research poster. To the right, a wooden chair sits next to the research poster describing its creation.

In the three photos, above, student presenters talk about their research to students and faculty.