Donald F. McHenry, a former U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations and a 1957 graduate of Illinois State University, attributed much of the success in his diplomatic career to his experience at Illinois State. While a student, McHenry strengthened his communication skills and deepened his understanding of the great issues that helped him so ably serve the United States as Ambassador to the United Nations. Dr. McHenry participated in many student activities, including the student chapter of the NAACP, theater productions, the student radio station, and the debate team which he captained in 1956, the same year he was named Outstanding Debater at Illinois State and in the United States. Dr. McHenry also cites Illinois State as a place where he made lifelong friends. Illinois State provides many of its graduates with experiences that influence the rest of their lives.

Eligibility: Applicants must be U.S. citizens of African, Asian, Hispanic, or Native American ethnicity, admitted into an Illinois State University graduate degree program, attend on a full-time basis, and demonstrate financial need and academic potential.
